THE PLOTTERS FOILED

Discovery of Effort to Tamper With Jett-White Jury.

A Big Fire in Boyle County Last Night—Kentuckian Arrested in Illinois.

OTHER NEWS BY WIRE

Cynthiana, Ky., August 5—The court officials of Cynthiana are prepared to frustrate an alleged plot to tamper with the jury in the Jett-White murder case. All the information has been given to officials, and the rumors which have leaked out created a great sensation and have elicited more gossip than any other feature of the trial.

The defense will soon be through and rebuttal will wind up the evidence, and arguments will doubtless last a day or two.

Dr. J. M. Kash, of Jackson, testified to attending the dying Marcum as he lay in front of the courthouse. He testified that a few minutes before the killing of Marcum, he saw Curt Jett in front of Hargis Brothers' store, immediately across the street from the courthouse, talking to Asbury Spicer and Tish Noble. This contradicted the testimony of at least fifteen witnesses, who testified for the prosecution to seeing Jett go into the side door of the courthouse a minute before the shooting.

On cross-examination he did not remember seeing any one else at the time of the killing about the court house. It was claimed by cross examination that he contradicted his testimony on the former trial at Jackson, six weeks ago.

Dr. Offutt and W. H. Blanton testified contradicting Mrs. Johnson's story about waylaid Marcum at a stone quarry. Joe Bruner testified that Ewen had told him that he did not recognize Jett as the man who killed Marcum.

Bowling, Spicer and Adams were cross-examined by Attorney Byrd. All their movements immediately after the killing and some of their movements before the killing tended toward Hargis Bros' store, which is situated immediately across the street from the courthouse. All three witnesses saw Ewen running from the court house immediately after the firing of the first shot, but say Jett did not go to the court house until the firing of the second and last shot.

BIG FIRE IN BOYLE.

Danville, August 5—One of the most disastrous fires in the history of Boyle county originated in the cellar of the Big wholesale store of the Curry Grocery company, at Junction City, this morning. The Commercial hotel, Good Bottling works, residence of Mrs. S. A. Moore, W. C. Woolford's confectionery, the Vogel's produce house and the drugstore of B. W. Durham, burned to the ground. Loss of Curry, $8800; Durham, $1000; Commercial hotel, $2500; Vogel, $1500. The was no insurance except on Curry's.

KENTUCKIAN ARRESTED.

Terre Haute, Ind., August 5—William T. Webb, from Fulton, Ky., was arrested at Paris, Ill., today on a charge of stealing hogs and jumping his bond. The arrest was made by chief of the Paris police force on information furnished by the sheriff of Ripley county, Illinois.

MORE OF THE POPE

The Coronation Will Probably be Aug 9th.

General Satisfaction Expressed Over the Conclave's Choice.

IS A CULTURED, PIOUS MAN

Rome, August 5—Guiseppe Sarto, patriarch of Venice, as pope to succeed Leo XIII., now reigns at the vatican and over the Catholic world as Pius X. All Rome is in gala attire in his honor.

His election and the assumption of his holy office were marked by a striking demonstration and impressive ceremonies at the vatican, which only ended last evening. Today the new pope, clad in his full pontifical robes, and with all the ritualistic ceremony, will receive all the members of the diplomatic corps, the cardinals and the bishops, who will then offer their official homage, this notwithstanding the fact that twice yesterday the cardinals and many high officials of the vatican went through a similar ceremony.

The date upon which the coronation of Pius X will occur has not yet been decided but the impression prevails that it will occur August 9. The conclave was formally disbanded until 5:30 last evening. The cardinals then returned to their various apartments in Rome, with the exception of Cardinals Rampolla and Oreglia, who temporarily retain their official suites in the vatican, and Cardinal Herreroy Espanosa who was too ill to be moved for several days. It was to the sick cardinal that the new pope paid his first visit after being formally proclaimed pontiff.

The cardinals will remain in Rome for the ceremonies, and should the coronation be fixed for next Sunday they are not likely to return to their respective homes until after that ceremony. With the exception of the Spanish cardinal, Herrero, all the others are now in fairly good health.

The election of the patriarch of Venice was unanimous. After Monday's ballot it was a forgone conclusion that he was the only candidate sufficiently acceptable to all to secure the necessary two-thirds, which the laws of the church require.

One of the cardinals said of the pope to the Associated Press that he believed Pius X would follow the broad lines of Leo's policy, although not likely to accentuate it. This voice the general feeling here, which is one of satisfaction. The new pontiff is a man of simple origin, and although not a very prominent candidate, he had been frequently mentioned as one of the many cardinals who might be taken up as a compromise. In several respects he resembles his venerable predecessor, notably in his reputation for culture and piety. Having been associated with no factions, this fact alone won him much favor from foreign cardinals, who were without an especial candidate. Pius X. was humorously described as "the country mouse who could not possibly find his way about Rome."

Venetians who know the new pope well say that he will soon be as much beloved as pontiff as he was yesterday as the beloved patriarch of the poor of the Adriatic. In appearance Pius X is a very handsome man. He has an erect figure, despite his 68 years, his face greatly resembling that of the late Phillips Brooks, the amiable Boston divine.

When he pronounced his first benediction yesterday at St. Peter's his voice rang out with splendid resonance. In every way today he showed beyond a doubt that he has dignity and personality in keeping with the best traditions associated with the famous pontiffs who for centuries have ruled the vatican.

All members of the sacred college declare they are very well satisfied with the election of the Cardinal Sarto, but the anti-Rampolla party consider it as their especial victory. When the first ballot was taken it was shown that the sacred college was divided

WILL GO TO TRIAL

Continuance Refused in Powers Case by Judge Robbins.

The Work of Getting a Jury Will Consume Some Time in All Probability.

TAYLOR'S PARDON INVOLVED

Georgetown, Ky., Aug. 5—Caleb Powers is to have a third trial for complicity in the Goebel murder. The pardon issued to him by Gov. Taylor may yet play an important part in subsequent proceedings.

The work of securing a jury is now on and may require several days.

Among those here to testify for the defense in the third trial of former Secretary of State Caleb Powers is "Tallow Dick Combes," the colored barber, who is also under indictment for alleged complicity in the Goebel murder. He is expected to contradict Henry Yontsey, who is serving a life sentence and has become a witness for the prosecution.

The defense yesterday offered affidavits for a continuance supported by a plea in abatement to go behind the records of the legislature that unseated W. S. Taylor as governor and other state officers in favor of Goebel and others, as it was upon authority that the court of appeals held the advance pardon of Powers by Taylor to be effective. The plea held that by going back of legislative records the defense could show the pardon to be good.

Commonwealth Attorney Franklin objected to filing this plea, and Judge Robbins sustained the objection, stating that the court took judicial notice of the statements there. Attorney James Sims, for the defense, stated that he desired to tender the plea so that the rejection could be noted fully and the court consented.

After recess the motion for a continuance was again taken up and discussed. The defense claimed it was an injustice to the defendant to force him into trial without his being permitted to get witnesses. The court overruled the motion for a continuance and allowed the admission of depositions of absent witnesses, except in the cases of William Sweeney and John Sweeney, Jr., who had been summoned as Sweeney. In these instances the court held that due diligence was not used in that the names of the parties could have been procured.

The sheriff was ordered to summon 200 men from Bourbon county to qualify for jury service. The jury made an effort to have the officers instructed to summon men of both political parties, but Judge Robbins decided that the law gives no such power.

MAY BE REFUNDED

COUNTY MAY ABANDON EFFORT TO GET LOW RATE OF INTEREST.

It is not known what the county will now do in regard to refunding the county bonds. Two efforts have been made to refund the $100,000 worth at a satisfactory rate of interest, but without success. It is the opinion of several county officials seen in regard to it today, however, that the county will shortly refund the bonds even if it cannot be done at any reduction, as the money with which to retire the bonds is not in the treasury.

"LANDMARK" TO GO

Cupolo Will be Removed From the Custom House soon.

It Promises to Create Something of a Stir—Other Improvement News Here.

MINOR BUILDING NOTES

The aesthetic taste of the architects of the United States government is being seriously questioned in Paducah just now because of the fact, not generally known, that the plans for the custom house addition now under way call for the tearing away of the familiar cupolo of the present government building.

For some time the change has been discussed about the government building, and among those who have known of it, and a great many people seem to be almost indignant that what is generally considered the only real ornament on the custom house should be removed. It was understood that former Congressman Wheeler had the new plans omit the cupolo, and there has been talk of getting up a petition asking the supervising architect at Washington to order the cupolo to remain.

In this case, however, as in others, there are two sides. Former Congressman Wheeler was this morning asked if it were true that he had the cupolo ordered off the custom house. He said in substance:

"Yes, I did. It was generally agreed among the architects in Washington when the plans were under discussion that the cupolo was a disfigurement on the present government building and would be more so when the addition is completed and there would be two buildings, practically, with a little cupolo sitting on top of the new building, because in its place a large sky light is provided for in the plans."

Congressman Wheeler declared he did not think there was any doubt that the cupolo would be unsightly when the addition is complete, and said it was a matter of opinion as to whether or not it is one now. He thinks it is. He is not an admirer of the cupolo, and would have favored its removal even if the addition had not been ordered.

The cupolo in question is about the highest place in the city, and a beautiful view of the surrounding country is afforded from it. It used to be very popular with sightseers several years ago, but in late years has been kept closed, and no one ever enjoys the view it affords.

As it stands at present the cupolo is pretty certain to come off.

A great deal of interest is manifested in the proposed $250,000 bond issue for city improvements. With the money contained in this issue it is proposed to build more paved streets and concrete sidewalks, erect a new city hospital and market house and purchase the railroad company property on the river front to use for additional wharfage. The first thing to be done is to authorize a vote on the bond issue, and if the people in November vote in favor of it the council and aldermen then issue the bonds.

The street committee of the general council held a meeting last night and decided that the grade for sidewalks on Second street shall be the same as that for the Broadway sidewalks, shown in the new pavement in front of Hotel Lagomarsino, which has the proper grade. All other pavements will conform to that grade when they are built. The property owners along the street were invited to attend the committee meeting last night and give their views, but none of them showed up.

In a few days the steam heating system in Paducah will be connected with the mains, and by cool weather the new plant will be in full operation with many buildings connected up. A number of buildings have already been connected and a number have ordered connections, and it is probable that

ONE TERM EXPIRES

Sutherland to be Re-appointed Police Commissioner.

Mayor So Announced This Morning—News at Police Headquarters Today.

ONE MOUNTED POLICE OFFICER

The term of Police Commissioner R. R. Sutherland has expired, and Mayor Yeiser stated this morning that he would in a few days reappoint Mr. Sutherland, who for several years was a member of the police force and is thoroughly conversant with the operation of that department.

The four commissioners were appointed over a year ago, and drew lots for the long and short terms, one holding one year and so on to the last, who holds four years.

Mr. G. W. Austin has been appointed one of the mounted officers to round up stock running at large inside the city limits and Marshal Crow will appoint another when he returns from Cairo. Mr. Austin is a well known printer and last night went to work but without a mount, arresting several horses and cows. The appointment of the two officers was authorized by the boards not long since.

Market Master Joe Woods is this afternoon being tried before Justice J. H. Burnett for assault and battery. He arrested Jim Earnheart several days ago while the latter was drinking, he claims, and clubbed him lightly several times. Earnheart was dismissed of one charge for breach of the peace, but has another case for using insulting language pending.

It was reported at the city hall today that Robert Lee, the young man arrested several days ago for being deranged and adjudged of unsound mind by a jury, was running about like a wild man on Livingston Point. As he did not undertake to harm anyone, however, no effort has been made to catch him.

Bruce Gillam of the county was arrested this afternoon for disorderly conduct on a warrant sworn out by Lucy Haynes, colored. Gillam, who was drinking, is alleged to have snatched off the woman's hat and thrown it in the gutter.

Marshal Crow will today bring back from Cairo Joe Davis, the negro charged with robbery, who has been in jail there for some time charged with another offense. The requisition arrived yesterday and Marshal Crow left last night.

May Crane and Jinnie Douglas, the girls who went to Evansville several days ago it is alleged on invitation from the doctor formerly here, were brought back last night.

many other concerns, in order to save time and fuel, will patronize the new industry.

The city has been unable to refund the Illinois Central shop bonds, amounting to $20,000. The city desires to take up the present bonds and issue new ones at a lower rate of interest, but no one has yet been found who wants them at a lower rate of interest.

Mr. A. D. Plamondon, of Chicago, one of the wealthy owners of the iron furnace on South Third street, is in the city on business. It was reported that he had left the company and intended to aid in establishing another furnace here, but he emphatically denies it.

Work on the government building addition is slow thus far, but the excavations are about complete. Machines to be used in the work are expected from Chicago and when they arrive the work will become rapid.

Architect B. B. Davis is now engaged on several sets of drawings to submit to the building committee of the Elks, and will probably be ready to report in about a week.

MANY TO MARRY IN THE LIONS' CAGE

New York, Aug. 5—With a careful of lions and lionesses as witnesses a half dozen young folks, wounded with Cupid's darts, will be pronounced a quarter of a dozen at Coney Island tonight. A wedding present of $100 will be given to each bride. If the lions don't dine first there will be a gay wedding supper after the ceremony.

The managers advertised for maids and bachelors with hearts that beat as one and the courage to stand in the lions' cage while a daring minister should couple them. There were many answers, but only three acceptances up to date.

The persons to be married are William E. Nahamed and Miss Isabel Trimmer, Richard E. Hirschner and Miss Elizabeth Mulz, and Jay Conway and Miss Minnie Schue.

AYOUNG MAN HAS SLEPT NEARLY 2 MONTHS

New York, August 1—After 44 days of steady sleeping, Endicott C. Allen of Boston, Mass., who has been in the Monmouth memorial hospital at Long Branch, awoke yesterday.

In going the rounds of the ward one of the nurses found Allen lying upon his bed wide awake, in which condition he remained for half an hour and then fell asleep again.

He has been in the hospital since June 14, and this is the first time he has awakened. The physicians at the hospital believe now that there is hope for the young man's recovery.

He still takes a good supply of nourishment. No medicines have been given him in his illness except tonics to keep up his strength, which the doctors believed was all that was necessary in his case.

During the half hour he was awake he conversed freely with the hospital staff.

SCIENCE IS DOING MUCH TO DOWN DEATH

London, August 5—The current meetings of the British sanitary institute, composed of scientists, mayors, councilors and officials from all parts of the country, have called public attention to the fact that since public health became a science at the beginning of the late queen's reign, the average life of a man has been increased by three years, and that of a woman by five years. Today there are more than 600,000 persons living in this country who, had they been born before the science of public health was known, would have died before they were a year old. Thirty years ago typhoid killed 374 people out of every million. Today, with an enormously increased population, it kills a bare 100 per 1,000,000. Typhus, which 60 years ago struck down another 300 per 1,000,000, has been literally stamped out by sanitation. Statisticians compute that the London county council has saved 20,000 lives, mostly infants, since its creation.

In the days of "Good Queen Bess" the death rate was 80 per 1000 per annum; today it is 18 per 1000 per annum.

Where 60 years ago 100 persons died from smallpox, about 5 die now. Deaths from fever have fallen by 85 per cent. typhoid by 60, scarlet fever by 81 and consumption by 46 per cent. From 1861 to 1865 scarlet fever killed 983 persons per 1,000,000, it now barely accounts for 100.

Consumption has now fallen within the purview of sanitary authorities. During 1861-65 death by consumption claimed 2526 persons yearly out of every 1,000,000 living. Today a better acquaintance with the laws of health has cheated death of half the harvest of 1861-65 from this disease.

PREMATURE BLAST

MANY MEN HAD A CLOSE CALL AT CEDAR BLUFF.

A flash of lightning struck a connecting wire and fired twenty-five heavy charges of dynamite at the Cedar Bluff quarries near Princeton Monday.

Contractor F. W. Katterjohn of Paducah, who works a large force of men at the quarries, requires them to fire the blasts after quitting time, 5 p. m. They were preparing for twenty-five heavy blasts Monday when a thunderstorm came up and they all had to seek shelter. During the storm a flash of lightning was followed by a terrific roar, and it was soon learned that the lightning had struck the wires that connected the blasts, but which had not yet been connected with the battery. Fortunately no one was hurt by the explosion.

QUITE ROMANTIC

KENTUCKY GIRL TO MARRY IN MINNESOTA.

Frankfort, Ky., August 5—The engagement of Miss Annie Williams, stenographer in the clerk's office of the court of appeals, to Mr. Joseph Byers of Minneapolis, Minn., just announced here, created a sensation in social circles, where Miss Williams is widely known and popular.

Miss Williams left for Minneapolis early in July, after the adjournment of court, for a summer vacation to visit her aunts, Mrs. Thomas Smith and Miss Nellie Egbert. She had been in Minneapolis but a short time when she met Thomas Byers, chief clerk of the Minnesota loan and trust company. It was love at first sight and a romance followed. The wedding takes place today.

CALLED SESSION

COUNCIL HELD A MEETING AND PASSED ORDINANCES.

A called meeting of the councilmanic board was held at the city hall last night to give second passage to some ordinances.

Second passage was given the ordinances providing for the extension of the sewerage system from Ninth and Tennessee streets to Jones, and from Tennessee street between Third and Fourth to Norton street.

The matter of cutting down the grade of Jarrett street to give it better drainage was referred to the city engineer and street inspector.

ATTORNEYS HAD TILT.

Hartford, Ky., August 5—There was a lively word passage between Attorneys H. P. Taylor and B. D. Ring while debating the Schlitzbaum case and the lie was passed. For a while it looked as if the trouble would be more serious and the court ordered both under arrest. Explanations followed and both were released.

FRAUD UNEARTHED

Have the Democrats Been Cheating one Another?

Evidences of Bogus Ballots and Other Kinds of Irregularities Discussed.

CONTEST CASE NOT FINISHED

The Democratic judicial committee did not finish its work of canvassing the ballots cast for commonwealth's attorney in Marshall county at the primary May 10, and adjourned yesterday afternoon late until tomorrow, when it will reconvene at Benton.

Chairman Morrison of Paducah and Chairman Edwards of Benton constitute the committee, and are going over the vote. Attorney L. K. Taylor of Paducah, who is contesting the nomination of Attorney John G. Lovett of Benton, thinks he has already clearly established the charge of fraud.

According to his version it has been clearly shown that votes cast for Attorney Taylor were not counted, to start with.

In the Heights precinct many ballots, it is claimed, exhibit a difference in type and spacing, showing that bogus ballots were printed somewhere and voted by friends of Attorney Lovett, while in the North Benton precinct a number of ballots apparently voted for Attorney Taylor by marks made with pencil were tampered with and stamped after Attorney Lovett's name, so much so, in fact, that Chairman Edwards himself agreed yesterday to throw five of them out.

The Lovett supporters of course deny the allegations of the Taylor side and claim that the ballots claimed to have been printed and "stuffed" into the box were the ones used at the election.

It was suggested that Mr. C. M. Leake of Paducah be brought down to testify whether or not the ballots were the same printed by him when he printed the ballots. Mr. Lovett's attorneys objected to this, claiming that the time for taking evidence was over. It is the intention of Attorney Taylor, however, to take Mr. Leake down tomorrow and have him examine the ballots and testify as to whether they are genuine or bogus.

Another claim made by Attorney Taylor is that about 150 ballots left over from the primary have disappeared. That several of the ballot books were not used up, and now all the extra ballots have vanished, supposedly voted for Mr. Lovett after the primary and those voted for Attorney Taylor destroyed.

Attorney Taylor is very emphatic in his assertions that there has been gross fraud. He stated this morning that he ventured to say that there were 25 differences in the bogus ballots and the regular ones. "The bogus ballots," he declared, "are not even printed with type from the same font, or on the same kind of paper."

Another instance he mentions is where some voter, evidently an old man whose hand shook, marked crosses after the names of candidates he wished to vote for. The crosses, or lines, are irregular and it is plain that the palsied hand of the voter was uncertain as it traced the marks. The line thus made after Attorney Taylor's name was erased and a cross mark in a firm, unwavering hand made after Attorney Lovett's name. The indenture made by the palsied hand is plainly visible on the paper after Attorney Taylor's name, although the coloring has been raised.

The purpose in meeting tomorrow is to argue the points of law and evidence. Attorney Taylor will ask that owing to flagrant and palpable frauds, the primary be declared off. He stated today that the law was that where the primary is so tainted with fraud that it cannot be reasonably determined who is nominated, the primary may be declared void. He will ask that this be done, but as it will require a majority of the committee to decide any question, and Edwards, of Marshall county, is known to be for Lovett right or wrong, no agreement will be reached and Attorney Taylor will have to go to the courts.

Rheumatism

"THE PAIN KING."

Those who have ever felt its keen, cutting pains, or witnessed the intense suffering of others, know that Rheumatism is torture, and that it is rightly called "The King of Pain."

All do not suffer alike. Some are suddenly seized with the most excruciating pains, and it seems every muscle and joint in the body was being torn asunder. Others feel only occasional slight pains for weeks or months, when a sudden change in the weather or exposure to damp, chilly winds or night air brings on a fierce attack, lasting for days perhaps, and leaving the patient with a weakened constitution or crippled and deformed for all time.

An acid, polluted condition of the blood is the cause of every form and variety of Rheumatism, Muscular, Articular, Acute, Chronic, Inflammatory and Sciatic, and the blood must be purged and purified before there is an end to your aches and pains. External applications, the use of liniments and plasters, do much toward temporary relief, but such treatment does not reach the real cause or cleanse the diseased blood; but S. S. S., the greatest of all blood purifiers and tonics, does cure Rheumatism by antidoting and neutralizing the poisonous acids and building up the weak and sluggish blood.

It is safe and reliable in all forms of Rheumatism. It makes the old acid blood rich, and the pain-tortured muscles and joints are relieved, the shattered nerves are made strong, and the entire system is invigorated and toned up by the use of this great vegetable remedy.

If you have Rheumatism, write us, and our physicians will furnish without charge any information desired, and we will mail free our book on Rheumatism.

DAILY THOUGHT.

No man who does a good deed should expect gratitude. The reward of a good deed is in having done it.
—Philistine.

THE WEATHER.

Fair tonight. Warmer in the northern portion. Thursday fair.

The sanitary committee of the house of delegates is to meet at St. Louis today. If it intends to have a general cleaning up to quiet Mr. Folk it should lay in a good supply of disinfectants beforehand.

Representatives of all the nations of the earth are in session at Berlin to discuss the governmental control of wireless telegraphy. Thus far, however, the people would like to have a little more wireless telegraphy and let the matter of control be settled after they get it.

McCracken county need not hope to refund its bonds at the proposed rate of interest, less than 4 per cent, at this time. When money is in such demand and men who have it to lend can get so much more for it there is little prospect of securing an investment here at the rate of interest desired by the county.

Admiral Cotton is doing his country proud at Lisbon by entertaining Portuguese officials aboard his flag-ship and President Roosevelt and the

Portugal have exchanged long greetings and compliments. It is a singular thing that does unite America and especially the United States, it is not quite ready to say so.

If Paducah will begin building streets and extending the sanitary sewerage and then make people connect with the latter we will be well on the road towards phenomenal growth. If every improvement requires as much time in preparation, however, as the streets just ordered paved, or the repairs to the few blocks on Broadway already paved, we might as well give up hope of ever being much of a city.

Now that the contract has been let for paving several blocks of streets in Paducah, the authorities should see that the work is done as such work is carried out in the large cities. Before, the main thoroughfare was torn up for several blocks for several weeks, while it was necessary to tear up only one block at a time. This is the way such work is done in other places, and it should be done, and doubtless will be done, this way in Paducah.

Mr. Bryan has been deprived of a golden opportunity. Former President Cleveland has accepted an invitation to speak before the Chicago Commercial club October 14, but in accepting, states emphatically that not a single word of politics will pass his lips. Mr. Bryan has about exhausted every subject except that of Mr. Cleveland, and Mr. Cleveland certainly showed very little consideration for his arch-enemy by not giving him another chance.

That everything people imagine is a trust is not a trust is evidenced by the report of the attorney general of the United States, which shows that only $20,000 of the $500,000 appropriated by congress for anti-trust legislation has been spent. The administration is known to be anxious to prosecute trusts, and President Roosevelt is credited with having made some powerful enemies by his fearless war against everything that bears the slightest resemblance to a trust, yet there are few corporations popularly known as trusts that are really trusts in the meaning of the law.

NEGROES KILLED BY MOB

COLORED PREACHER AND HIS SON-IN-LAW SHOT DOWN WITHOUT CAUSE.

Nashville, Tenn., August 5.—A special from Lewisburg says one negro was killed and another fatally wounded by a band of whitecaps. There were between 15 and 30 in the mob, which made its appearance at the home of a negro preacher named John Millikin, and after gaining entrance, demanded a light. Millikin told his wife not to strike a match, but she did so, and at the same time Millikin made his exit through a back door. He was commanded to halt, but continued to run until brought down by a volley. Millikin died almost instantly, and nine bullet holes were found in his body.

John Hunter, a son-in-law of Millikin, was made to accompany the mob on a fruitless search for another negro and in an attempt to escape was fatally shot in the back. The wife of Millikin was struck over the head with a gun and painfully injured.

No cause is assigned for the killing, as both Millikin and Hunter are said to have borne good reputations.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict to the effect that the negroes were shot by a masked mob, unknown to the jury. The work of the mob is strongly denounced by the law-abiding people of the county.

The mob is said to have been made up of young men or boys.

CAUTION!

This is not a gentle word—but when you think how liable you are not to purchase the only remedy universally known and a remedy that has had the largest sale of any medicine in the world since 1863 for the cure and treatment of consumption and throat and lung troubles without losing its great popularity all these years, you will be thankful we called your attention to Boschee's German Syrup. There are so many ordinary cough remedies made by druggists and others that are cheap and good for light colds perhaps, but for severe coughs, bronchitis, croup—and especially for consumption, where there is difficult expectoration and coughing during the nights and mornings, there is nothing like German Syrup. The 25 cents size has just been introduced this year. Regular size 75 cents. At all druggists. DuBois, Kolb & Co.

Mrs. Charles Lander and daughter, of Princeton, returned home today after a visit to the former's father, Lien tenant, Frank Harlan.

MISHAPS OF A DAY

Popular Man of Grayson County
Loses a Foot.

Young Man Painfully Hurt by Heavy
Stone Yesterday Afternoon
Late.

MEMPHIS MAN BROUGHT HERE

Hon. Z. T. Proctor of Leitchfield, Republican candidate for the legislature from Grayson county, was struck by an I. C. train yesterday afternoon at Beaver Dam and had a foot badly crushed, amputation being necessary when he reached the city.

The unfortunate man is about 56 years old and is a prominent attorney. Yesterday afternoon he was at Beaver Dam waiting for a train home to Leitchfield and in crossing the tracks to catch one train did not notice the train coming this way. He was struck and knocked some distance, his foot being crushed by the wheels. Dr. Kenney of Caneyville gave him medical attention, and he was brought on to the city on the train by the doctor, arriving about 6 p. m. It was found that amputation of the right foot was necessary, and it was taken off above the ankle. The patient is now resting easy, but will be confined to the hospital for several weeks.

Thomas Porteous, the ten year old son of Mrs. John Porteous, was painfully injured late yesterday afternoon, at the Carver-Porteous marble yard. The boy was sitting on a marble slab, which turned over and caught the heel of his left foot lacerating it badly. A deep cut was made through flesh and tendons, laying the bone bare. Dr. J. G. Brooks was called to dress the injury.

J. W. Barger, a boilermaker, was cut in the arm this morning at the I. C. shops while breaking a bolt loose from a tank. The injury is not serious.

Mr. E. J. Barrett, an I. C. machinist, got a piece of steel in his hand this morning and the steel had to be cut out by hospital physicians.

Mr. L. Newhouse, the drummer who was so badly hurt in a runaway several weeks ago, is improving slowly at Hotel Lagomarsino, and it will be some time yet before he is well enough to take to his home in Chicago.

Albert McNeal, a switchman, was brought in from Memphis last evening and taken to the railroad hospital, having fallen between two cars there and been painfully bruised.

Robert Smallman, engineer at Maxon's Mill who was cut by Henry Temple some time ago, is still improving at the railroad hospital. He will probably be out shortly.

DR. C. A. ELLIOTT IN A PRE-CARIOUS CONDITION.

Dr. C. A. Elliott is dangerously ill from bowel trouble at his home on North Sixth street. It is feared that he will not recover. He is probably the oldest practicing physician in Paducah.

HINKLEVILLE NEWS.

Hinkleville, Aug. 5.—Rev. L. D. Duncan of Paducah commenced a protracted meeting at Antioch church near here Sunday, July 26. There is a great interest manifested and the largest congregations that have ever met at Antioch. Up to Sunday morning there had been twenty-two conversions and sixteen accessions to the church and the interest increasing.

TO ANOTHER COURT

Gambling Cases Were Taken to Justice Barber Today.

Sam Holland Acquitted on a Charge
of Setting up a Game Today.

The warrants sworn out by Secretary Hanna of the Y. M. C. A. against John O'Neal, Sam Holland and "Trip" Harrell were taken up in Justice Jesse Young's court this morning. New warrants had to be issued today on the old affidavits, the old warrants having disappeared, and an affidavit was then filed by the defendants alleging that they did not believe they could get a fair trial in that tribunal, whereupon the cases were transferred by Justice Young to Justice R. J. Barber's court.

The crowd repaired to the latter's office a few doors away and the evidence was heard in the case against Holland, who was charged with operating a gambling room over a West Broadway saloon. There was no evidence showing that he had anything to do with setting up a game and the warrant against him, which was for a felony, was dismissed.

The cases against O'Neal and Harrell were then taken up and some of the evidence heard. Owing to the fact that some of the witnesses were absent, the cases were left open until Friday morning, when the cases will be resumed.

An amusing feature of the trial was the fact that none of the prosecuting witnesses knew anything about the kind of games that they saw played, except that it was called an "Indian game," and the court did not know what that was and neither did the witnesses. If it had been called a crap game, conz game or poker game it would have been understood, but no one was able to tell exactly what an "Indian game" is. When the dice were rolled it was called an "Indian throw."

CONFESSED HIS CRIME

WHITE MAN WILL BE LYNCHED
FOR HEINOUS ASSAULT.

Lewiston, Idaho, Aug. 5.—Wm. Hamilton, aged 24, today confessed to the murder and mutilation of Mabel Richards, an 11 year old girl, whose body was found near Anatone yesterday. Hamilton is in jail at Asotin. In all probability he will be lynched before morning, as hundreds of people are assembling in the town. The dead girl was a daughter of Sheriff Richard of Asotin county. Hamilton is a white man.

NEW PAVED STREETS

Contractor Terrell Begins Work
in One Week.

He Will Use Evansville Brick—Second From Broadway to Jefferson Comes First.

WORK REQUIRES 100 DAYS

Contractor E. C. Terrell, who has the contract for building the several blocks of paved streets just ordered by the council, and City Engineer L. A. Washington held a conference this morning and decided to begin work a week from tomorrow, August 13. All work must be done under the supervision of the city engineer, hence Mr. Washington was consulted before Mr. Terrell decided on any date for beginning.

The indications are that the job will be done in a prompt, workmanlike manner. Only one block at a time will be torn up except when one is nearly enough completed to begin grading another. Contractor Terrell was accorded the privilege of beginning anywhere he chose by Engineer Washington today, and as he was requested by a number of citizens to begin on North Second street, he has decided to start there and pave the block from Broadway to Jefferson on Second, first.

Mr. Terrell estimates that 100 days will be required to complete the work. He will use all the men possible. The brick he is to use will be Evansville brick, unless the council prefers some other brick at the same price. This is the kind of brick Mr. Terrell bid on, however, and he states he will use it unless the boards insist on some other brick at the same cost. The brick used on Broadway was Chattanooga brick.

His foremen will come from Evansville. He doesn't know as yet how many men he can use, but he will put on as many as he can. The hauling away of dirt, etc., he will do with his own teams.

Contractor Terrell stated today that he desires to begin and complete the work as soon as possible and with reasonably favorable weather he believes he can do it in 100 days. He has ordered a large amount of material, and by this time next week will have the grades for the first block and be ready to begin.

This afternoon the street committee will meet to test brick to use in building the brick streets. There are several kinds of brick on the market and the committee will meet to select the best for the money. Contractor Terrell will meet with them.

FIRM INCORPORATES.

COVINGTON BROS. HAVE $150,000
CAPITAL STOCK.

Articles of incorporation of Covington Bros. Co. were filed today in county court with $150,000 capital stock, divided into 1,500 shares of $100 per share.

The following is a list of the incorporators and the amount of stock held by each: W. J. Slayden, Ashville, N. C., 375 shares; G. O. Covington, Mayfield, 375; O. C. Covington and W. E. Covington, city, 375 each. The headquarters are located here and the organization was effected for the purpose of carrying on a wholesale grocery business. This is nothing more than a reorganization of the Covington Bros. Co. of this city. One firm at Mayfield was absorbed.

MAKING BANK NOTES

ELABORATE EFFORTS TO FOIL COUNTERFEITERS.

All of a Certain Denomination Exact Duplicates of One Another—Many Persons Engaged in the Preparation of Each Bill.

First in consideration in making a bank note is to prevent others from making a counterfeit of it. Therefore, all the notes of a certain denomination or value must be exact duplicates of one another. If they were engraved by hand this would not be the case. Hand engraving is more easily counterfeited than the work done by the process actually used.

"Every note," said an official of one of the leading bank note companies, "is printed from a steel plate, in the preparation of which many persons take part. If you will look at $5 greenback you will see a picture in the center, a small portrait, called a vignette, on the left, and in each of the upper corners a network of fine lines with a dark ground, one containing the letter and the other the figure 5. To make a vignette it is first necessary to make a large drawing on paper with great care, and a daguerreotype is then given to the engraver, who used a steel point to make on it all the outlines of the picture. The plate is inked and a print is taken from it.

"While the ink is still damp the print is laid down on a steel plate, which has been softened by heating it red hot and letting it cool slowly. It is then put in a press and an exact copy of the outlines is thus made on the steel plate. This the engraver finishes with his graver, a little tool with a three-cornered point, which cuts a clean line without leaving a rough edge. Now, this plate is used for making other plates, it is never used to print from. It must be made very hard, and this is done by heating and cooling it quickly. A little roller of softened steel is then rolled over it by a powerful machine until its surface has been forced into all the lines cut into the plate.

The outlines of the vignette are thus transferred to the roller in raised lines, and after the roller is hardened it is used to roll over plates of softened steel, and thus makes in them sunken lines exactly like those in the plate originally engraved. The center picture is engraved and transferred to a roller, like the vignette, but the network in the upper corners, and also on the back of the note, is made by the lathe. This machine costs $5,000—a price that puts it beyond the reach of counterfeiters. Its work is so perfect that it cannot be imitated by hand. The lathe engraves the network on softened steel, and the figure in the middle is then engraved by hand. It is now hardened and transferred to a roller like the others.

"The plates from which notes are to be printed are of softened steel and large enough to print four notes at once. Four engravings of the note must, therefore, be made on it, and this is done by rolling the hardened steel rollers containing the raised pictures over it in their appropriate places until the pictures are pressed into its surface. The fine lettering around the borders of the note is transferred in the same way, but the other lettering is put on by hand.

"This process saves a great deal of time and it secures absolute uniformity in the four engravings on the plate. The back parts of the note are printed first, and when the ink is dry the green back is printed, to be followed by the red stamps and numbers. It is then signed and issued. For greater security one part of the note is engraved and printed at one place and another part at another place, when it is sent to Washington to be finished and signed. But, needless to say, after all this care and all these safeguards, many skillfully executed counterfeiters have been made and issued, some of them so good as to deceive expert judges of money."

To Restore Greek Temple.

The Greek Archaeological Society has decided to restore the Doric temple of Jupiter, at Nemea, situated near the haunt of the famous Nemean lion, the slaying of which formed one of the feats of Hercules. The edifice was overthrown by a succession of earthquakes, and only three columns are now standing; but the fallen shafts that lie around the temple are so little injured that it is believed that it will be possible to re-erect them and the fallen entablature without much difficulty or expense, and without having recourse to new material. As soon as the ground around the temple has been cleared of the litter of fragments that now encumber it, the Greek government which has hitherto been inaccessible and intends to begin excavations on the spot, hopes to make valuable discoveries.

Whose Fault Was It?

Recorder Goff relates with great glee this joke on himself: A jurymen applied to him to be excused from serving, on the ground that he was deaf and could not hear clearly. "You've been in the court all the morning—didn't you hear my charge to the jury?" asked the recorder. "Oh, yes, your honor," was the quick reply; "I heard it right enough, but I couldn't make any sense of it."—New York Times.

SUMMER COLDS Produce Chronic Catarrh.

Madame Isabella Ellen Baynes.

Madame Isabella Ellen Baynes, Life Governor Grand Lodge of Free Masons of England, in a letter from Hotel Saratoga, Chicago, Ill., says:

"This summer while traveling I contracted a most persistent and annoying cold. My head ached, my eyes and nose seemed constantly running, my lungs were sore and I lost my appetite, health and good spirits. Doctors prescribed for me all manner of pills and powders, but all to no purpose.

"I advised with a druggist and he spoke so highly of a medicine called Peruna, that he induced me to try my first bottle of patent medicine. However, it proved such a help to me that I soon purchased another bottle and kept on until I was entirely well."

Madame Isabella Ellen Baynes.

Summer colds require prompt treatment. They are always grave, and sometimes dangerous. The promptness and surety with which Peruna acts in these cases has saved many lives. A large dose of Peruna should be taken at the first appearance of a cold in summer, followed by small and repeated doses. There is no other remedy that medical science can furnish, so reliable and quick in its action as Peruna.

Address The Peruna Medicine Company, Columbus, Ohio, for a free book entitled "Summer Catarrh," which treats of the catarrhal diseases peculiar to summer.

FAIR PLAY ASKED

MANAGER JOYNES EXPLAINS FACTS RELATIVE TO LABOR UNION ATTACK.

To Our Patrons:

An attack has been made on the East Tennessee Telephone company through the labor unions of the city and the facts have been misrepresented to the members of these unions and in turn by them to patrons of the East Tennessee Telephone company, who should know the true facts.

In the first place the East Tennessee Telephone company has never had any differences with their employees, have never refused a demand from them either individually or as a body and as they employ more than 75 people regularly. This fact alone indicates their men have no grievance and are satisfied.

For every attack there is a motive which must benefit some one and as the employers of East Tennessee Telephone company are not dissatisfied, or benefited by the attack the independent company is alone benefited and this attack was brought about through their superintendent of construction who is secretary of the Electrical Workers' union.

The reason given by the Electrical Workers' union to the Central Labor union for the attack is not the true one, in which they state they were informed the East Tennessee Telephone company discharged men who belonged to their union and discriminated against its members. As neither of these statements is true, and neither can be substantiated.

This attack is only another dying attempt of the independent company to force their service on the unwilling public and citizens of Paducah who are approached by these agents with their threats, intimidations, etc., will be sure to remind them that such practices are relics of the dark ages, and will refuse to take any part in such an unjustifiable attack.

A brilliant historical romance based upon the mystery surrounding the fate of the Dauphin, son of Louis XVI and Marie Antoinette, will be our next serial story.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

Chicago Evening Journal
A noble story, told with rare touches of splendor and pathos attuned to the truth of historic revolution and evolution.

Indianapolis News
The story is delightfully written; its action direct, forceful; its characters well and strongly drawn; its atmosphere consistent and true.

New York World
The sustained work of a brilliant imagination and a ready pen. In the happy conclusion of the book love reigns alone, and the king without a throne becomes merely such a sovereign as we daily meet under the stars and stripes.

Chicago Tribune
A beautiful love story is woven in the grave fabric of the story and glorifies it. The heroine is singularly fascinating and noble and her vicissitudes are no less interesting than those of the hero.

Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin
Lazarre is a story which will please all lovers of daintily sentimental romance.

Great Blood and Liver Medicine Made From Herbs.

I am offering my Great Blood and Liver Medicine to the people of Paducah. For 40 years I've made this medicine and have had wonderful success with it. It is nature's own remedy, made from herbs gathered by myself. I am not mistaken in my work. No sir, gentlemen! This medicine I learned to make in slave time, years ago, and guarantee it for the following diseases:

LIVER, KIDNEY, BLOOD AND FEMALE TROUBLE.

Address Jas. Hamilton, 501 Poplar St., Cairo, Ill., and medicine will be sent you. Put up in 25c, 50c, 75c and $1 bottles.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT

BOYS FOUND RANSACKING A HOUSE—WILL GO TO RE-FORM SCHOOL.

Frank Waggoner and Jim Pruett,
boys, were presented in police court today on a charge of breaking into the Luttrell home on South Fourth street, the family being out of the city. They were caught in the act of ransacking
the house and the Pruett boy escaped
but was today brought to police headquarters by his father. The Waggoner boy will be sent to the reform school
but the Pruett boy, as it is his first offense, will be released. They will be tried tomorrow.

The case against Charles Buck, charged with robbing an Illinois Central conductor, was continued until Saturday.

LEAVES THE STEEL TRUST.

New York, August 5—The resignation of Charles M. Schwab as president of the United States Steel corporation was presented to the directors
yesterday afternoon and was accepted.
W. E. Corey was elected president of the corporation.

The office of chairman of the board of directors was created, and F. H.
Gary was elected to the position and will continue to devote his entire time
to the business of the corporation.

Mr. Schwab will continue as a member of the finance committee.

Mr. Schwab said his resignation was due to ill health. He says he will remain a director of the corporation.

Unearth Body of Abbot.

Recent excavations on the site of
St. Augustine's abbey, Canterbury, Kent, England, have brought to light
the leaden coffin and coffin plate of Abbot Ulric I. (985-1006), and the body of another abbot wrapped in silk vestments, much decayed, with pieces of copper gilt clasps. Numerous fragments of carved marble, brightly painted stones, gilded pinnacles and furnishings have also been unearthed.

OUTING SPOTS IN THE NORTHWEST

There are many places in the country of the Northern Pacific, some inexpensive, others better and more expensive, where one can spend the summer days pleasantly and healthfully. Among these are Walker in the Leech lake country, and Detroit and Battle Lake in the Lake Park region in Minnesota; Eaton's ranch, near Medora, N. D.; Hunter's Hot Springs in the Yellowstone valley, and Missoula and the Bitter-root valley in Montana; Lakes Pend d'Oreille and Cour d'Alene, Idaho; North Yakima in Eastern Washington, and Green River Hot Springs in the Cascades; Tacoma, Seattle, Port Townsend, Port Angeles and Victoria on Puget Sound, and many places along the Columbia river and on the Pacific Ocean from Portland as a center.

Those east of the Mississippi who wish a decided change should go to the Rockies or the Puget Sound and Columbia river and sea coast country. We can only hint at these things here, but write us giving particulars as near as you can, and we will try to give you the needed information to enable you to find what you want. And don't forget that Yellowstone Park is the chief of all tourist shrines.

"I don't feel that we are being fairly treated," he said. "We most naturally assumed that your clients wanted to—
to extend our option on the property for at least another six months. We assumed that from the fact that we had no notification from them that they would be ready to pay the note
today. That's where we feel injured, Mr. Miller."

Rayburn threw his cigar into a cuspidor. His attitude of being a noninterested agent was simply a stroke of genius. Behind this plea he crouched, showing himself only to fire shots that played havoc with whatever they struck.

"I believe my clients did feel, I may say, honor bound to you to sell for the price they offered, but now I may be mistaken—but I'm sure they were under the impression, as I was, too, that you only wanted the property provided
you could build a railroad from Darley
to it, and."

"Well, that's true," broke in Wilson.

"That's quite true."

"And," finished Miller, still behind his inevitable fortification, "they tell me that you have certainly shown indifference to the project ever since the note was given. In fact, they asked me pointedly if I thought you meant business, and I was forced conscientiously to tell them that I thought you seemed to have other fish to fry."

Wilson glared at the lawyer as if he wanted to kick him for a stupid idiot
who could not do two things at once—
work for the interests of his clients and not wreck his plans also. It had been a long time since he had found himself
in such a hot frying pan.

"So you think the thing is off?" he said desperately, probably recalling several purchases of land he had made in the section he had expected to develop. "You think it's off?"

"I hardly know what to say," said Miller. "The old gentleman, Mr. Bishop, is a slow going old timer, but his son is rather up to date, full of energy and ambition. I think he's made up his mind to sell that property."

Wilson turned to his desk, hovered over it like a dark human cloud and then reluctantly turned to the big iron safe against the wall, obviously to get the note. His disappointment was too great for concealment. With his fat, pink hand on the silver plated combination bolt he turned to Miller again.

"Would you mind sitting down till I telephone one or two of the directors?"

"Not at all," said Miller. "If you'll get me a cigar and the Constitution. The Atlanta baseball team played Mobile yesterday, and I was wondering—"

"I don't keep track of such things,"
said Wilson, coming back to his desk with an impatient frown to ring his call bell for the office boy.

"Oh, yes, I believe football is your national sport," said Miller, with a dry smile. "Well, it's only a difference between arms and legs—whole bones and casualties."

Wilson ordered the cigar and paper
when the boy appeared, and, leaving the lawyer suddenly, he went into the room containing the telephone, closing the door after him.

In a few minutes he reappeared,
standing before Miller, who was chewing a cold cigar and attentively reading. He looked up at Wilson abstract-edly.

"Bully for Atlanta," he said. "The boys made ten runs before the Mobiles had scored."

"Oh, come down to business," said
the New Englander, with a ready made smile. "Honestly, I don't believe you drowsy southerners ever will get over your habit of sleeping during business hours. It seems to be bred in the bone."

Miller laughed misleadingly. "Try to down us at a horse race, and we'll beat you in the middle of the night.
Hang it all, man, you don't know human nature, that's all! How can you expect me on my mealy fees to dance
a breakdown over business I am transacting for other people?"

"Well, that may account for it," admitted Wilson, who seemed bent on being more agreeable in the light of some fresh hopes he had absorbed from the telephone wires. "See here, I've got a rock bottom proposal to make to your people. Now listen and drop that paper for a minute. By Jove! If I had to send a man from your state to attend to legal business, I'd pick one not full of mental morphine."

"Oh, you wouldn't?" Miller laid down the paper and assumed a posture indicative of attention roused from deep sleep. "Fire away, I'm listening."
"I already had authority to act for the company, but I thought it best to telephone some of the directors." Wilson sat down in his chair and leaned toward the lawyer. "Here's what we will do. The whole truth is we are willing to plank down the required one hundred thousand for that property,
provided we can lay our road there without incurring the expense of purchasing the right of way. Now if the citizens along the proposed line want their country developed bad enough to donate the right of way through their lands, we can trade."

There was a pause. Then Miller broke it by striking a match on the sole of his boot. He looked cross-eyed at the flame as he applied it to his

"Well," he asked, almost under his breath.

cigar. "Don't you think your people could stand whatever value is appraised by law in case of refusals
along the line?"

"No," said Wilson. "The price for the land is too steep for that. Your clients have our ultimatum. What do you say? We can advertise a meeting of citizens at Springtown, which is about the center of the territory involved, and if all agree to give the right of way it will be a trade. We can have the meeting set for today two weeks. How does that strike you?"

"I'd have to wire my clients."

"When can you get an answer?"

Miller looked at his watch. "By 5 o'clock this afternoon. The message would have to go into the country."

"Then send it off at once."

A few minutes after 5 o'clock Miller sauntered into the office. Wilson sat at his desk and looked up eagerly.

"Well," he asked, almost under his
breath.

The lawyer leaned on the top of the desk. "They are willing to grant you
the two weeks' time provided you sign
an agreement for your firm that you will purchase their property at the price named at the expiration of that time."

"With the provision," interpolated Wilson, "that a right of way is donated."

"Yes, with that provision," Miller
nodded.

"Then sit down here and write out your paper."

Miller complied as nonchalantly as if he were drawing up a bill of sale for a worn-out horse.

"There you are," he said, pushing the paper to Wilson when he had finished.

Wilson read it critically. "It certainly is binding," he said. "You people may sleep during business hours, but you have your eyes open when you draw up papers. However, I don't care.
I want the Bishops to feel secure. They must get to work to secure the right of
way. It will be no easy job, I'll let you know. I've struck shrewd, obstinate people in my life, but those up there beat the world. Noah couldn't have driven them in the ark even after the flood set in."

"You know something about them,
then?" said Miller, laughing to himself
over the implied confession.

Wilson flushed and then admitted that he had been up that way several times looking the situation over.

"How about the charter?" asked Miller indifferently.

"That's fixed. I have already seen to that."

"Then it all depends on the right of way," remarked the lawyer as he drew a check from his pocket and handed it to Wilson. "Now get me that note,"
he said.

Wilson brought it from the safe.

"Turning this over cuts my option down to two weeks," he said, "but we'll know at the meeting what can be done."

"Yes, we'll know then what they can do with you," said Miller significantly as he put the canceled note in his pocket and rose to go.

CHAPTER XXIX.

THE mass meeting at Spring-
town was a most important event. It was held in the courthouse in the center of the few straggling houses which made up the hamlet. The entire Bishop family, including the servants, attended.
Pole Baker brought his wife and all
the children in a new spring wagon.
Darley society was represented, as the Springtown Gazette afterward put
it, by the fairest of the fair, Miss Dolly Barclay, accompanied by her mother and father.

The courthouse yard was alive with groups of men, eagerly talking over the situation. Every individual whose land was to be touched by the proposed road was on hand to protect his rights.

Pole Baker was ubiquitous, trying to ascertain the drift of matters. He was, however, rather unsuccessful. He discovered that many of the groups ceased to talk when he entered them.
"Somebody's up," he told Alan and Miller in the big, bare looking courtroom.
"I don't know what it is, but I smell
a rat, and it ain't no little one nuther."
"Opposition," said Miller gloomily.
"I saw that as soon as I came. If they really were in favor of the road, they'd be here talking it over with us."
"I'm afraid that's it," said Alan.
"Joe Bartell is the most interested, and he seems to be a sort of ringleader. I don't like the way he looks. I saw him sneer at Wilson when he drove up just
now. I wish Wilson hadn't put on so much style—kid gloves, plug hat and a negro driver."

"No, that won't go down with this crowd," agreed Miller. "It might in the slums of Boston, but not with these lords of the mountains. As for Bartell, I think I know what ails him. He's going to run for the legislature and thinks he can make votes by opposing us—convincing his constituency that we represent moneyed oppression. Well, he may down us, but it's tough on human progress."

At the hour appointed for the meeting to open a young man who held the office of bailiff in the county and seemed proud of his stentorian voice opened one of the windows and shouted:

"Come in to court! Come in to court!"
and the motley loiterers below began to clatter up the broad stairs and fall into the seats. Joe Bartell, a short, thicket man in the neighborhood of fifty, with a florid face and a shock of reddish hair, led about twenty men up the aisle to the jury benches at the right of the stand. They were the landowners whose consent to grant the right of way was asked. Stern opposition was clearly written on the leader's brow and more or less distinctly reflected on the varying faces of his followers.

"If we needed it, it'd be a different matter," Miller overheard him say in a sudden lull as the big room settled down into sudden quiet, "but we kin do without it. We've got along so fur an'
we kin fuder. All of us has got good teams."

Wilson in his crisp, brusque way made the opening speech. He and his capital were going to dispel darkness
where it had reigned since the dawn of civilization. All that was needed, he finished, was the consent of the property owners appealed to, who, he felt confident, would not stand in their own light.

He had hardly taken his seat when Joe Bartell stood up. Alan and Miller exchanged ominous glances. They had
at once recognized the inappropriateness of Wilson's speech and did not like the white, twitching sneer on Bartell's smooth shaven face. It was as if Bartell had been for a long time seeking just such an opportunity to make himself felt in the community,
and there was no doubt that Wilson's almost dictatorial speech had made a fine opening for him.

"Fellow citizens an' ladies an' gentlemen," he began, "we are glad to welcome amongst us a sort of a second savior in our Sodom an' Gomorrah of crackdome. What the gentleman with the plug hat an' spike toe shoes ain't
a-goin' to do fer us the Lord couldn't.
He looks nice an' talks nice, an', to use
his words, I don't believe he deceives appearances. I'll bet one thing, an'
that is 'at he won't deceive us. Accord-in' to him we need 'im every hour, as the Sunday school song puts it. Yes, he's a-goin' to help us powerful an'
right off. An', fellow citizens, I'm heer to propose a vote o' thanks. He's from away up in Boston, whar, they tell me,
a nigger sets an' eats at the same table with the whites. When his sort come this away durin' the war, with all the
up to date impliments of slaughter, they laid waste to ever' thing they struck, shot us like rabbits in holes an'
then went back an' said they'd had a good hunt. But they've been livin' high up thar sence the war, an' the'r timber is a-playin' out, an' they want some more now, an' they want it bad. So they send the'r representatives out to find it an' lay hold of it. How does he happen to come heer? As well as I kin make out, old Alf Bishop, a good man an' a southern soldier—a man that I ain't got nothin' agin, except maybe he holds his head too high—made up his mind awhile back that lumber would be in demand some day, an' he set to work buyin' all the timber land he could lay his hands on. Then, when he had more'n he could tote an' was about to go under, he give this gentleman an'
option on it. Well, so fur so good; but,
gentlemen, what have we got to do with this trade? Nothin' as I kin see.
But we are expected to yell an' holler
an' deed 'em a free right of way through our property so they kin ship
the timber straight through to the north an' turn it into cold Yankee coin.
We don't count in this shuffle, gentlemen. We git our pay fer our land in bein' glad an' heerin' car bells an'
steam whistles in the middle o' the night when we want to sleep. The engines will kill our hogs, cattle an'
horses an' now an' then break the neck o' some chap that wasn't hit in the war, but we mustn't forget to be glad an' bend the knee o' gratitude. Of course we all know the law kin compel
us to give the right of way, but it provides for just and sufficient payment
for the property used; an', gentlemen, I'm agin donations. I'm agin 'em tooth
an' toe nail."

There was thunderous and ominous applause when Bartell sat down. Wilson sat flushed and embarrassed, twirling his gloves in his hands. He had expected anything but this personal fusillade. He stared at Miller in surprise over that gentleman's easy,
half amused smile as he stood up.

"Gentlemen," he began, "and ladies,"
he added, with a bow to the right and left. "As many of you know, I pretend to practice law a little, and I want to say now that I'm glad Mr. Bartell ain't in the profession. A lawyer with his keen wit and eloquence could convict an innocent mother before a jury of her own children. [Laughter.] And that's the point, gentlemen. We are innocent of the charges against us. I am speaking now of my clients, the Bishops. They are deeply interested in the development of this section. The elder Bishop does hold his head high,
and in this case he has held it high enough to smell coming prosperity in the air. He believed it would come,
and that is why he bought timber lands extensively. As for the accused gentleman from the Hub of the universe, I must say that I have known him for several years and have never heard a word against his character. He is not a farmer, but a business man, and it would be unfair to judge him by any other standard. He is not only a business man, but a big one. He handles big things. This railroad is going to be a big thing for you and your children. Yes, Wilson is all right. He didn't fight in the late unpleasantness.
He tells the women he was too young.
Wilson is here to build a railroad for your good and prosperity, and he can't build one where there is nothing to haul out. If he buys up timber for his company, it is the only way to get them to back him in the enterprise.
Now, gentlemen of the opposition, if there are any here today, don't let the thought of Wilson's possible profit rob
you of this golden opportunity. I live at Darley, but, as many of you know,
this is my father's native county, and I want to see it bloom in progress and blossom like the rose of prosperity. I want to see the vast mineral wealth buried in these mountains dug out for the benefit of mankind wherever God's sunlight falls."

Miller sat down amid much applause,
a faint part of which came even from the ranks of Bartell's faction. After this a pause ensued in which no one seemed willing to speak. Colonel Barclay rose and came to Miller.

"That was a good talk," he whispered. "You understand how to touch them up. You set them to laughing;

that's the thing. I wonder if it would do any good for me to try my hand."
"Do they know you have any timber land over here?" asked Miller.

"Oh, yes; I guess they do," replied
the colonel.

"Then I don't believe I'd chip in," advised Miller. "Bartell would throw it up to you."

"I reckon you are right," said Barclay, "but for the Lord's sake do something. It never will do to let this thing fall through."

"I've done," I can," said Miller de-jectedly. "Bartell's got the whole gang hoodooed, the blasted blockhead!
Wouldn't he make a fine representative
in the legislature?"

The colonel went back to his seat,
and Wilson came to Miller just as Alan approached.

"It's going to fall flatter than a pancake," said Wilson. "My company
simply cannot afford to buy the right of way. Can't you choke that illiterate fellow over there or—buy him off?"

"He ain't that sort," said Miller disconsolately.

Alan glanced at his father and mother. On their wrinkled faces lay ample evidence of wisdom. The old man seemed scarcely to breathe. Up to Bartell's speech he had seemed buoyantly hopeful, but his horizon had changed. He looked as if he were wondering why he had treated himself to such a bright view of a thing which had no foundation at all.

At this juncture Abner Daniel rose from his seat near the stove and slowly walked forward till he stood facing the audience. Immediately quiet reigned, for he was a man who was invariably listened to.

Flaw in the Reasoning.
Mr. and Mrs. Chuckster were engaged in one of their frequent arguments. "Now, Amanda, see here—"

"Get that right, Oliver," she interrupted. "The proper form, as you will see if you think a moment, is 'look here.'"

"What's the difference?" he demanded. "You can't look without seeing, can you?" "Oh, yes, you can.
Everybody says you and I look alike,
but it's a notorious fact that we don't see alike."

BOARD OF EDUCATION MEETING

An adjourned meeting of the board of education was held this morning over Cochran's shoe store near Broadway and Fourth, no quorum being present at the meeting last night.

The regular bills were allowed and it was ordered to advertise for bids for furnishing coal and supplies to the schools for the year.

The report of Superintendent Hatfield was brief owing to the fact that there have been no schools for the past two months, and it was received and filed. His annual report was also read and filed and will be made public Saturday.

Miss Mabel Durick, of De Koven, Ky., who has been a teacher in the public schools here for several years, tendered her resignation, which was accepted and Miss Margaret Kirk, a sister to Miss Susanne Kirk, of Louisville, was elected to succeed her.

Last night there was no quorum, only five being present, and the board adjourned over to meet this morning.

The report of the district school committee, placing the teachers for the ensuing year is as follows:

To the Honorable Board of Education:

Gentlemen: We, your committee on district schools, have taken into consideration the convenience of the respective teachers as far as was consistent with the best interests of the schools, according to our best belief recommend the following placement of teachers for the ensuing year:
